Dear Brent:

This letter is regarding recalled flight attendants who are currently employed by American Eagle.

Any flight attendant who resigns from American Eagle on or after April 1, 2011 and attends training in conjunction with the June 1, 2011 recall will retain their current NRSA travel privileges between their resignation date and their on payroll date as an American Airlines flight attendant. Reciprocal travel agreements, ZED travel and other interline travel will not apply.

Additionally, this privilege will not apply to any flight attendant who fails to report to his/her assigned training class or fails to successfully complete recall training.

This special travel privilege is offered on a non-precedent setting basis. Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely yours,

Keith McCarty
