

Summer 2020 schedule changes match reduced customer demand

Today we announced we're making further capacity cuts this summer to address record low customer demand.

In short, we'll:

- Suspend more than 60% of international capacity for the peak summer travel season versus the same period last year.
- Delay the launch of new routes, including service from Philadelphia (PHL) to Casablanca (CMN), Chicago (ORD) to Krakow (KRK) and Seattle (SEA) to Bangalore (BLR) to 2021.
- Delay the launch of new winter seasonal service from Los Angeles (LAX) to Christchurch (CHC) and from Dallas-Fort Worth (DFW) to Auckland (AKL) to winter 2021.
- Suspend 25 total summer seasonal flights until summer 2021.

Summer and winter capacity will be reduced

We'll suspend more than 60% of total international capacity this summer compared to the same peak period in 2019, which includes an 80% reduction in Pacific capacity, 65% reduction in Atlantic capacity and 48% reduction in Latin America capacity. These changes are due to significantly decreased customer demand as well as government travel restrictions -- both related to the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic. The reduced summer schedule, as well as the previously announced domestic schedule reductions for May, will be reflected on aa.com starting Sunday, April 5.

We previously announced that new service to AKL from Dallas-Fort Worth (DFW), CHC from Los Angeles (LAX) and BLR from SEA would all begin in October 2020, but we'll now begin operating those routes in winter 2021. The resumption of existing service to AKL from LAX -- which was originally slated to resume in early October 2020 -- will now resume at the end of October 2020.

We'll further extend the start date of new routes. Service to London (LHR) from Boston (BOS) will now launch in October 2020 and service to Tel Aviv (TLV) from DFW will begin in September 2021. Service to CMN from PHL and KRK from ORD will not launch this year, as well as 23 existing summer seasonal routes.

A full list of changes to the international summer schedule are posted here. There are no further changes to announce at this time.